

6. Market (300 words) • Describe the customer and the target segments. • What is important to them? • What is the size of the opportunity? • Is the buyer or payer different from the customer in this market? • Describe the industry ecosystem.

The main customers for our innovation are homeowners and long-term renters who are responsible for maintaining safe environments within their home, which includes families, first-time homeowners, elderly individuals, and landlords managing properties. The customers we aim to target value health, safety, and affordability, but they often lack the time, expertise, or funds to monitor multiple housing risks simultaneously. Issues like poor air quality, excess humidity, and pest activity are all very difficult things to detect and monitor without specialized tools and are associated with serious long-term health and financial consequences. Due to this, customers prioritize early detection, reliability, and clear guidance.

The market opportunity is significant, with approximately 150 million housing units in the United States representing potential users. Even though homeowners are the primary buyers, landlords, and property management companies may also act as payers to reduce liability and maintenance costs. The industry ecosystem includes environmental sensor manufacturers, home inspection services, contractors, public health agencies, housing authorities, and insurers. We plan to expand our business in 3 stages: Stage 1, direct sales to homeowners and small landlords; stage 2, partnerships with property managers and insurers; and stage 3, integration with larger housing programs to enable broad adoption.

References:

<https://ipropertymanagement.com/research/landlord-statistics>

https://unitedwaynca.org/blog/vacant-homes-vs-homelessness-by-city/#:~:text=FAQs%20about%20Housing%20Availability%20and,Source:%20U.S.%20Census%20Bureau\)..)

Maybe piechart of market size, other things,